Take part in this summer's Bookopoly, an opportunity to try new things when it comes to your reading life. Whether it's a new genre, author, or bookish activity you wouldn't normally do -- give it a GO!

The board can look a little intimidating at first, but don't let it worry you... it's not a competition. It's about YOU and YOUR OWN reading experience. And for each book you read or each task you complete, you increase your chances to win bookish prizes at our end of the summer party (happening during a lunch period at the start of the next school year). Whether you read a little or a lot, you win at Bookopoly!

Instructions:

1. Use your Bookopoly board to inspire your reading choices.
2. READ! READ! READ!
3. Keep track of your progress on the back of the board. Record the titles of each book you read. You can only use one book per category, in other words, you can't use a book in more than one box. For each book title and/or each task, you'll be entered in the prize raffle.
4. Turn in your board when we get back to school. Look for further details about the PARTY!
